

SNIS/Joint Cerebrovascular Section
Fellows Course

SPONSORSHIP PROSPECTUS

July 29-30, 2021

The Broadmoor
Colorado Springs, Colorado

More than a decade ago, SNIS established the Fellows Course to signal our commitment to the next generation of practitioners who will build upon and push forward the field of neurointervention. Our vision is to equip and empower first- and second-year fellows to advance minimally invasive surgical treatments for neurovascular diseases – helping to demonstrate the tremendous value our relatively new field has already brought to medicine and to patient care.

This year, we are excited to pursue ways that we can expand the program and deepen its footprint. It is an exceptional opportunity to welcome those who have chosen our specialty to get an up close and personal view of neurointervention and the promise it holds.

The SNIS Fellows Course will be offered immediately following the SNIS 18th Annual Meeting at The Broadmoor. To ensure that your sponsorship remains a good investment, we are offering visibility at this premier convening for neurointerventionalists that is sure to draw a crowd, particularly given the desirable location.

We are currently designing formats for the meeting that will allow for training across the full spectrum of neurointervention. You can expect to see presentations, Q&As, discussion panels, and more. At the same time, hands-on workshops will provide attendees an opportunity to handle your devices in simulated treatment scenarios, while you share the advantages of and innovations behind your current products and those that are on the horizon.

The added value for sponsoring the Fellows Course continues to be the all-important relationships that are established by meeting people who, like you, are working to improve the quality of and access to health care through innovation. It is difficult to replicate such exchanges and sharing of ideas, and we know that by coming together and working together, our field will continue to save lives.

Thank you for your ongoing commitment to SNIS, neurointervention, and to a healthier world.

The sponsorship package for the SNIS/Joint Cerebrovascular Section Fellows Course will support the hands-on workshop. Please select from the following:

Number of Stations	Hands-on Workshop Sponsorship Cost
1	$10,000
2-3	$12,500
4-5	$15,000
6-10	$17,500

- A station is defined as a six-foot table. You may skirt the tabletop with your company name and logo.
- Due to the significant cost of simulator transportation and set-up, any company that has purchased a traditional station(s) and is willing to provide a simulator will be given a station for that simulator AT NO COST. The number of simulator stations cannot exceed the number of traditional (non-simulator) stations purchased.
- Each sponsor will have their own private room.
